Kaveri Book Service, New Delhi, 2006. Hard Bound. Book Condition: New. The history of Indo-Pakistan relations has mainly been a story of conflict and discord, mutual distrust and suspicion. A continuing Seige mentality on both sides, fuelled by bitter historical memories, deep rooted prejudices and undying mistrust, is a powerful political tool for fanning public passions in the hands of those decision makers and governmental institutions having vested interest in perpetuating hostilities. Hard line politicians and policy makers on both sides, denigrate dialogue and promote enemy images, aided in their task of manipulating public opinion by sympathetic segments of the media, and years of indoctrination through state controlled educational systems. This book introduces the subject and gives a general description of the problem to be investigated. Contents: (1) Prologue: End of Cold War and a New Beginning: South Asia and Global Political Trends/ Problems of Peace and Security in the Region/ Origins of Conflicts in South Asia: An overview. (2) South Asian Spectrum with Special Reference to Indo-Pak Relations: The State of Jammu and Kashmir/ The fourth war of Kashmir:Kargil/ Nuclear Policy of India/ Nuclear Policy of Pakistan/ Track Two Diplomacy.
